Asleep in Jesus.

John W. Sage of Adrian, Mo., was born in Lee county Virginia, May 27, 1837, and entered into rest November 21, 1913, aged 76 years, 5 months and 26 days.

He left Virginia with his mother in 1840 and came to Independence, Mo., where he grew to manhood and was married March 31, 1859 to Sarah E. Smith, who survives him. They lived together 54 years and seven months. To this union were born nine children, five sons and four daughters; the oldest son and a daughter died in infancy. A grown son, married died three years ago at Haines, Oregon. Three sons and three daughters survive him and with the wife and mother mourn the loss of a most loving, sympathetic father and a noble, tender husband. The children are Mrs. Mattie Daniel, Sycamore, Kans., Mrs. Lou Shelton, Adrian, Mo., Mrs. Susie Vernon, Whiting, Kans., Chas. Sage, La-Cygne, Kans., Pearl Sage, Kansas City, Mo. He also leaves three living grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Brother Sage's shildhood and youth were spent among the early settlers and Indians. The writer remembers hearing him many times converse his life and adventures when driving an ox team across the plains, making eighteen trips. He was well posted on the Santa Fe trail and we have often heard him sing the Indian language and his was a beautiful voice for singing that has now joined the Heavenly choir. His schooling was meager but such a massive mind—could learn from all nature "Sermon's from stones and books from running brooks." He delved into God's word without human aid only as it was revealed to him by the great Author and Teacher. He was converted early in the 60's and united with Mill Creek Baptist church. He was licensed by this church to preach the gospel in the year 1867. He was ordained to the full work of the ministry October 31st, 1868. Since that time he has preached the gospel faithfully in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Washington, Oregon and New Mexico.

All these years up to ten days of his life he was a faithful and devoted worker in his Master's vineyard, doing a great deal of his work among weak churches, where little salary was received and while raising his family, laboring early and late on the farm for their support, riding on horseback long distances through storms and icy cold to meet his appointments. His christian character and ministerial work stand as a monument to his memory, being ever ready with a word of condolence for the stricken and a word of advice and admiration for the wayward. He counted his friends by the number of people who knew him.

Funeral services over the remains were held at Amsterdam, Mo., that being the old West Point church, where he labored so many years, his home being in Linn county, Kansas, one-half mile from West Point, Mo. A large concourse of people waited patiently at the church for more than an hour to look for the last time on the face of their friend.

Rev. R. L. Wood, pastor of Adrian Baptist church, where Bro. Sage was a member at the time of his death, preached a splendid sermon from the text, Numbers 23:10.

A righteous man has gone from us. Palms of victory and crowns of glory he shall wear.

Obituary.

Rev. A. H. Lewis, who departed this life on Nov. 9th, 1913, at the home of his son, J. W. Lewis, was born in Madison county, Virginia, Sept. 9th, 1826; moved with his parents to Culpeper county at the age of five years, where he grew to manhood; was educated and taught several terms of school.

In January, 1850, he was married to Geraldine D. Covington and to this union were born eleven children, two dying in infancy, nine of whom survive him, four sons and five daughters with their families are left to mourn the loss of a loving, affectionate, sacrificing father.

Grandpa Lewis came to Missouri from Virginia, it being many years ago in 1856, and invested in land in Saline county; moved from there to Ray county, then to Bates county in 1870 where he has resided since on a farm. His gospel ministry has been principally among the churches of Bates county. He was ordained to the ministry in 1874, thereby taking upon himself a duty he had long shrunk from and just how faithful he was to trust, or how efficient his labors have been, the brethren and churches can best tell. His pleasure and delight was to spend the time in the Master's work, to use his influence for conversion of those about him.

During the last years of his life he was identified with the Mt. Vernon church, east of town. He was a man of general impulse and never forgot the hospitable ways of the pioneer. The stranger, even though a beggar, never failed to find food and shelter if he sought it at his hands and he was at home by the bedside of the sick and delighted in all kinds of neighborly offices. He had borne adversity bravely and enjoyed prosperity quietly. He had filled the various relations of life as son, husband, father, brother, friend and filled them well. Who can do more?

He was a man who united sound sense with strong convictions, and a candid outspoken temper eminently fitted to mould the rude elements of pioneer society into form and consistency and aid in raising a high standard of citizenship in our state. How much his community owes him and such as he, it is impossible to estimate, though it would be grateful to trace his influence through some of the more direct channels, to hold him up in these degenerate days in his various characters of husband and father, of neighbor and friend, to speak of the sons and daughters he has reared to perpetuate his name and emulate his virtues. But it comes not within the scope of a brief article to do so. Suffice it to say he lived nobly and died peacefully. At the advanced age of 87 years the stern reaper found him as a shock of corn fully ripe for the harvest. Not for him be our tears; rather let us crown his grave with garlands; few of us will live as long or as well and fewer yet will the Angel of Death greet with such a loving touch.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. M. Brown of Kansas City and Rev. J. W. Sage of the Baptist church in Amsterdam after which the remains were laid to rest in West Point Cemetery.

We extend the sympathy of this community to the bereaved family.—Amsterdam Enterprise.
